The President's Constitutional advisers are developing a great deal of talent of one sort and another.

Secretary Whitney can't make fun of Attorney General Garland until he has shown that his skirts are clear of street car mud.

Mr. Wolford, of Kentucky desires to provide for Mr. Jefferson Davis let him pass around the hat. The pension idea is not worthy of a Kentucky Statesman.

It begins in the Senate to-day. The President's promised message can only make the fun more furious. The Senate wants information, not ground and lofty tumbling.

Bookkeepers and office clerks in New York have formed a federation of labor, and intend to establish branches in all the large cities.

They are moving in the same direction, and may join the National Federation of Labor. Their lot will find it difficult to raise salaries by organization for the same reason that salaries are now kept down--an excessive supply of that kind of labor.

Men who would earn four dollars a day laying bricks rush into an overcrowded labor market where some who are already at work are glad to get a dollar a day. An advertisement for a servant girl will not bring a fourth as many responses as an advertisement for a bookkeeper, and the servant girl, with her wages, board and washing, is often better paid. However, the bookkeepers have a right to make the effort and see what it will do for them.

The Pittsburgh Leader and the New York Daily Advertiser are being boycotted because they will not insist that all of their men shall join the typographical union or be discharged. Both papers employ men and non-union men because of the non-union men refuse to join and others have been posted as men who cannot gain admittance to member ship. The Advertiser pays union rates, but only one cent per thousand ems above these rates. Some of the Leader's men have been with the paper since its first number. One of the Advertiser's men has been in the office for forty years. Both papers prefer to be boycotted rather than discharge old and faithful men who have families dependent upon them.

If these newspapers hold their ground, and the union men their, the result will be that no non-union men will be employed in either office. If the union succeeds the result will be to throw out of work men who do not wish to belong to the union, and others who could not be long if they would. The demand is neither fair nor wise. Efforts of this character do not help the cause of labor, and they are not unlike the intolerant acts of unfair employers. Labor ought to strive to make friends by the justice of its dealing.

A newspaper of a free trade turn rises to remark: "If America would take it exchange for her wheat and cotton the people of England, wheat and cotton would bring better prices. But when we send wheat, cotton and tobacco we ask 'cash,' India and Egypt will take pay in other commodities, and so they are England's favored customers." Not exactly. Last year we did not demand of England cash for $138,000,000, the year before for $162,000,000, in 1882 by $188,000,000, in 1883 by $195,000,000. We not only took English products to this amount, but it is interesting to know that we took manufactured articles which went to have made in this country. England buys of us nothing that she can buy cheaper elsewhere. She would buy of us no more than she does if we agreed to take it all out in trade. Last year she bought from us three dollars' worth to one we bought of her. With regard to India and Egypt--God forbid that the United States shall become an India or an Egypt!

We have not the figures later than for 1881, when India bought of England $25,000,000 more than she sold to her, and 1883 was an average year. More than a third of India's exports is in raw cotton, which she buys back from England in the manufactured state, though even this dependence puts a duty on English cotton fabrics. The sixteenth century adventurers found India skilled in the manufacture of cotton and silk fabrics; to-day agriculture is the one great industry, and millions of millions of women are employed at it.

An English writer, recognizing the great change, is fair enough to say: "The forms of India are bound up with those of a country (England) whose manufacturing supremacy depends upon a great export trade. The tide of circumstances, however, more inexorable than artificial enactments, has compelled the weaver to exchange his loom for the plow, and has created out of a multitude of minor handicrafts."

India raises the great part of her revenue from a burdensome land-tax, and from the opium monopoly conducted by a Christian Government to enable the Chinese of China to become virtuous and happy. More than a tenth of the revenue is retained from a tax on salt. The United States is better off than India or Egypt, though England would like to reduce as that lower level.

Pennsylvania Relief Scheme. PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 28.--Considerable surprise was occasioned among the Pennsylvania Railroad Company employees by the posting of the following notice at all the principal offices of the company:

The feature of the relief fund requiring employees entering the service of the company to accept its provisions having been given that no one at present is, or on entering the service will be obliged to become a member. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company employees contribute to the relief fund for February and March by employees who have made application for membership, which otherwise would have been delayed from their February pay. Under the provisions of this notice no deduction will be made from the pay of employees for February.

CHARLES E. POOR.

A GREAT DEBATE

TO TAKE PLACE IN THE SENATE

On the Deadlock Between That Body and the President--A Sensation Promoted in the Way of a Message From the Executive--Washington News Notes.

Special Dispatch to the Intelligencer.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.--What promises to be the greatest debate that has occupied the attention of the United States Senate for the past thirty years will take place on Monday and probably continue through the entire week. I refer to the discussion of the report of Mr. Edmund's Committee--the Committee on the Judiciary.

As regards the number on both sides of the chamber and the character and prominence of the men who will take part in the debate, the constitutional questions involved, and the issue at stake, there has been nothing to approach it during the last two decades. The attention of the entire country has been directed to the issue between the President and the Senate, and it is safe to predict that more than ordinary interest will be taken in the progress of the discussion by the people at large. From all your correspondent can learn it is likely that the justice Senator from West Virginia, Mr. Kenyon, will have the honor of opening the debate. I have already telegraphed you the statements of Washington papers to the effect that his speech promises to be an able effort.

Nearly every Senator is looking forward to the debate with much interest, and it is believed by his friends that he will present the President's side of the case in a manner that will make him the leader of the Democratic side of the Senate Chamber in this debate.

Every Senator of prominence on the Republican side will take part in the discussion, which will no doubt be of a bitterly partisan character.

A RENAISSANCE IN STYLING. A surprise, in this connection, is in store for the Senate, and one which is not looked for by the Republicans. An incident will take place which will add very much to the interest of the debate, and, besides causing a sensation, will prove to be a matter for comment by the politicians on Monday. The President will send to the Senate a carefully prepared message, to be read in open session, in which he will set forth his side of the issue in all its details. In this message President Cleveland will present an exhaustive argument in support of the prerogatives of the Executive in the matter of removal, will attempt to sustain the position he has taken, and defend his future policy. His communication will announce that he does not propose to yield an inch from his stand, and will be construed as an open declaration to the Senate. My informant, who is on intimate terms at the White House, says that the message will be the sensation of the session, and will possibly change the line of argument at present contemplated.

PENSIONING SCANDALOUS. Congressman W. Wood's scheme--Jeff Davis to be included in the List.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 28.--In the House of Representatives yesterday Mr. Wood, of Kentucky, spoke in support of the Mexican pension bill, and an amendment he offered, providing that Jeff Davis, the ex-President of the Southern Confederacy, be included among the pensioners. He spoke at great length and was frequently applauded on the Democratic side of the House. He said that the time had come when the Northern people should recognize Jefferson Davis as the man who took in the war, and, at least, not allow their prejudices to make them forget the great and gallant services he performed for the country in the war with Mexico. He graphically described the battle of Buena Vista, where Davis, and the battle of Gettysburg, where Davis, made the gallant charge which saved the day for the United States forces.

Mr. Wood also gave notice that he will, on Monday, introduce a bill to pension every ex-Confederate soldier who lost a leg or an arm in the War of the Rebellion. He said the greatest desire he had was to see the wounds of the late unfortunates healed up, and that this was the way to do it. The country would not object, he said, to the pensioning of ex-Union soldiers of the honor of any ex-Union soldiers of his own acquaintance who draw pensions every month and regularly give the entire amount to destitute ex-Confederates. These men would not object to the measure, he said, and nothing like the same acquiescence might be expected of a majority of the Union men of the North. Old differences should be forgotten. The ex-Rebels should be treated as brothers by the men of the North. "You appropriate millions of dollars to the pensioning of the Union men," he said, "and you neglect the men of the South. The men of the South are not citizens, who burn your towns, massacre your settlers and outrage your women, but you have not a cent for your brethren of the South, who, when they fought against you, were brave and true, and who are now, peaceable citizens, and who are to be treated like brothers, for they have a brotherly feeling for you."

GOVERNMENT'S BILL. For a Marine Hospital at Gallipoli--He also introduced a bill for a Marine Hospital at Gallipoli.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb. 28.--Representative Grosvenor, of Ohio, will introduce a bill Monday providing for the location of a Marine Hospital at Gallipoli, and appropriating $25,000 for the erection of the necessary building. Mr. Grosvenor is very confident that the Gallipoli site is very desirable, and says there is no will be selected, and says there is no probability of the location being located at Point Pleasant, West Virginia.

He speaks rather meagerly of Eustace Gibson's Point Pleasant bill, and declares that it is only a scheme of the West Virginia Congressmen to make themselves popular in Mason county, and that the latter will feel well that the hospital will remain at Gallipoli. Mr. Grosvenor also says that he does not believe there is any truth in the statement that a majority of the river men favor Point Pleasant as the permanent location of the hospital.

He is assisted by prominent West Virginians from along the river, and particularly from Point Pleasant, that Grosvenor misrepresents Gibson, and that the river men do favor the West Virginia site, which is naturally adapted for it.

SOLUTION GENERAL GOODE. The Sub-Committee of the Senate Judiciary Committee Begins Work.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.--Senators Hoar and Jackson of the sub-committee on the Judiciary, appointed to investigate the charges against Solicitor General Goode, were in session this morning in the room of the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections. The following gentlemen from Norfolk are here under subpoena: O. W. Grandy, commission merchant; W. H. White and Judge T. S. Garnett, lawyers; W. H. Peters, bank receiver; and Charles Thompson, who are understood to be personal friends of Mr. Goode. The investigation is to be a secret one. The witnesses are closeted in an adjoining committee room, and are brought in one at a time before the sub-committee.

The examination lasted an hour and a half. The charges against General Goode were made known to the witnesses, but the inquiries made of them related to the appointment of Mr. Peters to be Receiver of the Exchange National Bank, and so far as their replies went they were emphatically in vindication of General Goode, who is said to have been charged with receiving a fee for his services in securing the appointment. The witnesses said the appointment was made in compliance with the wishes of business men of Norfolk. They had $100,000 in the bank, and wished to have a man appointed as receiver in whose ability and integrity they had confidence.

AN INDIAN DELEGATION. Chiefs and Agents in Washington to Consider a Surrender of Their Reservation.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.--A delegation of representative Indians from Colorado were at the Capitol to-day in conference with the Senators from that State. They are Ignacio, Chief of the Southern Ute, and head Chief of the Wainochees; Buck-shin Charley, head Chief of the Wapiti, and Tabushchee, Chief of the Capote, branches of the Southern Ute. They were accompanied by C. F. Stolete, agent of the Southern Ute, and State Senator Dan Archuleta, Interpreter Dr. Albert A. White, and Harry Schieffer, of Colorado.

The delegation came here under authority from the Interior Department, and upon the invitation of Senator Bowen, whose purpose in the movement is to ascertain on what terms the Indians will surrender their present reservation and move into Southern Utah. At present they occupy splendid agricultural lands, but are reported to be making no progress as farmers. They cannot raise cattle in competition with the cowboys, and have to draw their support mostly from the Government. Senator Bowen thinks they ought to be supplied with sheep in lieu of other supplies, and make themselves self-supporting herds like the Navajo, their neighbors. They are to be given a hearing by the Senate Committee on Indian Affairs next week.

A BLIZZARDY DISPATCH That Sends the Chilly Senators Through the Payne Grounds.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.--The House has a blizzard special which has caused a variety of chilly sensations in Washington. "COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 26.--There are more rather sensational outgivings from members of the Payne investigation Committee this evening. One is that the majority of the committee are ready to report upon the testimony already taken; that a general conspiracy to corrupt the Legislature had been proven, and that the committee thought of turning the investigation, with the testimony, over to the U. S. Senate. He said he concluded to go on taking testimony on the specific charges of bribery against members of the present Legislature.

"A member of the committee says money will be specifically traced, and that members of both the present houses will be involved as to create vacancies. He also says the committee placed a detective upon the track of John Huntington, who was popularly alleged to be the distributor of corruption funds at the time of the caucus, and that he was discovered that he was in Cuba, whither he went immediately after the investigation was instituted. Mr. Huntington was a prominent officer of the Standard Oil Company.

"But the most sensational rumor, coming from the same source as the former, is that a member of the Legislature intends to turn State's evidence, and under a promise of immunity from the Prosecuting Attorney of this (Franklin) county, to go before the committee and make a clean breast of it. The name of this witness is not given, but surmises agree upon ex-Representative Hamilton, of Monroe. It now turns out that while he was not summoned here on Monday night last, he came with the knowledge of the committee, and left with the members of the committee. It is expected the investigation will be resumed on Wednesday next."

MISS CLEVELAND'S RECEPTION. An Elegant Lunch served at the White House by the President's Sister.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.--Miss Cleveland gave another large lunch today to ladies this afternoon, assembling a company of fifty around the table in the State dining-room. The party was itself a very large affair, and the one of the preceding week. The apartments were the same beautiful formal decorations added to them for the official reception of last evening, and the Marine band was concealed in the private dining-room, and the party then moved to the State dining-room, and the light of chandeliers and the innumerable shaded lights on the table enlivened the scene.

The ladies entered the dining room about seven o'clock, and found the table laid with the board was beautifully decorated with flowers, the central ornament of the long mirror being an oval cushion of flowers over five feet long. High baskets and esperges of flowers, with the base of the stands encircled with frames of flowers, were ranged the length of the table, and with the candelabra, composites and fancy dishes, made it well covered. Between the two plates were saucers of salted almonds, showing how that dining fancy is strongly established. At each place was a large goblet of ice water, and a smaller one for sparkling water, and with the gilt crested name card lay a course bouquet with brown, white, yellow, ribbon, delicately decorated and ready to be pinned. The bouquets were of roses, lilies, yellow anemones or orchids. Twelve courses were served to the honored company.

Miss Cleveland sat at one end of the long table, and Mr. May, her right, and Mrs. Voorhees at her left. The company was composed of the cream of Capital society.

CRAZED BY LIQUOR

AND INCITED BY JEALOUSY

A Man Takes His Wife's Throat and Then Kills His Own Life by Shooting Himself Through the Neck--A Horrible Deed of Blood--Cause of the Tragedy.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 28.--Gottlieb Lentz, a German residing at 2542 Spruza street, cut his wife's throat with a razor this morning and then shot himself with a revolver, both dying instantly. The tragedy was the result of jealousy on the part of the husband. The couple had been married thirty years and had raised a family of three girls and two boys. Lentz drank heavily, and when under the influence of liquor became very abusive to his wife. To-day he came home intoxicated, but contrary to his usual custom he treated his wife very kindly, and after remaining in the house a short time again went out. During his absence, one of the Lentz daughters, but she not being at home he left. Lentz returned immediately and it is supposed that he saw the young man depart. There were no witnesses to the horrible tragedy, but from a terrible struggle must have taken place, Lentz had evidently slipped beside his wife and drawing her head back had slashed the razor across her throat. Mrs. Lentz covered her face with her hands, and when she then through an alley way to the street where she entered a saloon and fell to the floor dead. At the same time two pistol shots were heard in the direction of the Lentz home.

A policeman entered the house and found Lentz lying dead on the floor with a shot through the neck and a revolver lying by his side. He had tried to end his life by hanging, but was unsuccessful. The neighbors speak very highly of Mrs. Lentz, and say that her husband had no cause for his jealousy.

Shot His Wife and Killed. CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 28.--Frank Buegel, the man who shot his wife Cynthia Buegel, at Massillon, Ohio, last night, committed suicide. After leaving home the police secured the town and searched for Buegel, and sent a telegram to other cities giving a description of the fugitive. About 7 o'clock this morning his dead body was found lying in the road within forty rods of his house. His throat had been cut from ear to ear, and the body was committed. Mrs. Buegel is still alive. The only witness to the shooting was a domestic, who refuses to say anything about the cause which led to the trouble. It is supposed, however, that Buegel and his wife quarreled about money matters.

BUHAL TREATMENT. A Quaker Man Sustained for Importing Foreign Labor.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 27.--George A. Peet, manager of the Gallet Cotton-Gin Factory at Amite, La., was brutally whipped by a party of twenty armed and masked men last night. Mr. Peet had left the factory in company with the watchman to take the train for this city, where his family resides. He had proceeded but a short part of the road to the depot when he met the masked party. Mr. Peet and the watchman were seized and hurried to the woods. There Mr. Peet's clothing was stripped from his body and his naked form tied to a tree. He was then cruelly beaten with a rope. After his release the leader of the lynch mob read a document to him, stating that he had been whipped for importing foreign labor into Amite, and that if he returned to the town he would be hanged. Mr. Peet was then allowed to proceed to the train, but he is now in a hospital in his bed at his home, suffering severely from the effects of the cruel treatment he received.

The perpetrators of the outrage held the watchman until they had finished whipping him, and then released him unharmed. None of the masked party were recognized, but every effort will be made to discover them. The Governor will be asked to offer a reward for their apprehension, and the cotton-gin company will supplement this with a large sum. Mr. Peet is a gentleman of high standing in this city in business and social circles, and his friends are greatly shocked and indignant over the brutal outrage to which he has been subjected. Some times ago Mr. Peet had been employed in the factory on the ground of incompetency, and employed skilled workmen in their places from Parkersburg, W. Va. This is supposed to be the cause of the outrageous assault upon him.

The flames were first noticed in Pittsburg's saloon. An alarm was at once sounded, but the building being frame the fire was beyond control before the fire department arrived. The flames soon spread to the saloon of Michael Holt, adjoining, and then to Bowers' tin shop, Brown's bakery, Alwood's hardware store and the office of A. W.
